MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2014 series

2056 ISLAMIC RELIGION AND CULTURE

2056/13 Paper 1, maximum raw mark 100

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2014 series for most Cambridge IGCSE[®], Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

1 (a) Describe the social life and traditions of the Arabs during the pre-Islamic Period. [10]

•	social conditions and values of the Arabs during the pre-Islamic period were based on tribal tradition established by the elders of the tribe	[1]
•	great sense of collective responsibility between members of the Bedouin tribes as life
	was difficult; individual loyalty to tribe was important	[1]
•	honour had to be preserved at all costs	[1]
•	tribal alliances were valued, though constant warfare between tribes for revenge,	[4]
	superiority, went on for generations	[1]
•	Arabs developed their own concept of morality [muruwah] which gave meaning to the _	lives; meant courage, patience, endurance, generosity best person in tribe was chosen as leader [shaykh]; not a hereditary position	[1] [1]
•	shaykh's importance depended on his justice , his expertise in raids to capture camels
•	cattle or goods of other tribes; took care of the weaker members of the tribe	, [1]
•	both Bedouins and settled Arabs needed one another for economic reasons	[1]
•	life for Arabs in settled communities e.g. in Mecca and Taif, was busy in commerce	[1]
•	they still maintained social contact and tribal allegiances	[1]
•	common vices of drinking, gambling etc. more prevalent here, led to debt; therefore usury commonplace [1 mark only for any mentioned]	[1]
•	women had no status [except those of rich families e.g. Khadijah], few rights, uncheck
	polygamy	[1]
•	male off-spring preferred [would grow up to be fighters]; female infanticide prevalent	[1]
•	Arabs were proud of their language; poets were held in high esteem	[1]
•	slavery was widespread	[1]
•	slow process of change occurred with the Prophet's teachings	[1]
•	most social changes took place when the Prophet [pbuh] migrated to Medina and	۲.1
	established a Muslim community	[1]
•	he emphasised teachings from the Qur'an on fair dealing in all aspects of life; 'Allah enjoins justice and the doing of good, and generosity towards fellow men. And He forbids all that is shameful and all that runs counter to reason' [16:90]	[1]
•	Muslims were encouraged to think of other Muslims [the ummah] rather than their name	ow
	tribal loyalties	[1]
•	establishment of brotherhood amongst Muslims made them more generous	[1]
•	usury [riba] forbidden to prevent monetary exploitation of the poor	[1]

- officials to live simply rather than follow the ostentatious life styles of today
- to promote healthy pattern of democracy and not rule like despots; Caliphs used the majlis-e-shura to advise on all kinds of administrative matters e.g. on fixation of salaries, appointment of judges, assessment of taxes etc.
- officials in government to treat their position as one of 'trust', not their right to do what they like
- the Caliphs tried to ensure basic human rights and prosperity for all citizens
- they endeavoured to implement a welfare state which would promote brotherhood, and equality without differentiation or discrimination
- to give non-Muslim subjects the same rights, especially to practise their religion freely; having lived in Mecca where early Islam was not tolerated, the Caliphs were always conscious of other faiths and tolerant of non-Muslims; their places of worship were protected
- Treasury [baitul mal] not considered property of the Caliph; he received a salary, the amount was fixed by the mailis-e-shura
- the Qur'an and sunnah were their guide; these provided the standard of their moral conduct and inspired their actions

9 [10] (a) What is mentioned in the Qur'an about the life of Prophet Ibrahim [AS]? tried to dissuade his father Azar from worshipping idols, to no avail [6:74] [1] Ibrahim believed in one God [was a hanif], not the sun, moon because they set [1] [6:75–78] 'Ibrahim was not a Jew nor yet a Christian; but he was true in Faith, and bowed his will to Allah, and he joined not gods with Allah...' [3:67] [1] smashed idols, was asked who did it, said 'Ask the big one if he can speak' [21:65] [1] survived ordeal of fire; Allah said 'O fire! be cool and safe for Ibrahim' [21:69] [1] prayed for a son; Allah gave him a 'patient son' [37:101] [1] '...seen a dream... sacrifice thee...' [37:102] son said 'Do as thou are bidden....I will be patient in adversity...' [37:102] [1] Allah stopped him 'Thou has fulfilled the dream...indeed a trial...' [37:104]; '... And left him thus to be remembered by succeeding generations...' [37:109] [1] angels visited him, didn't eat, said they were '...sent against the people of Lut...' [11:70] [1] his wife Sarah laughed when angels gave her glad tidings of '...Ishaq and after him of Yaqub...' [11:71, 37:112] [1] "... Behold! We gave the site to Ibrahim of the House, saying: "Associate not anything with Me; and sanctify My House for those who compass it round... and proclaim the pilgrimage among men..." ' [22:26] [1] "...And take the place where Ibrahim stood as your place of prayer..." [2:125, 3:97], his footsteps to be seen at magam Ibrahim [1] '...Ibrahim and Ismail raised the foundations of the House saying: Our Lord! Accept this from us...' [2:127–128] [1] prayed to Allah to make '...this city one of peace and security...' [2:126] referring to Mecca [1] they also prayed for a prophet to come from their descendants [2:129] [1] (b) '...We make no distinction between any of them...' [2:136]. Discuss this statement with reference to Allah's prophets. [10] fourth Article of Faith to believe in all Allah's prophets [1] Muslims believe in the line of prophets beginning from Adam [1] as Allah makes no distinction between them [nabiyyeen], nor should Muslims [1] 25 are mentioned by name in the Qur'an [1] Qur'an says there were many more [Hadith says approximately 124 000] [1] message they brought was the same: to believe in Allah as One [1] were sent to all communities; 'and indeed before thee [Muhammad] did We send forth apostles each one unto his own people' [30:47] [1] all were human, and all without sin [1] all obeyed Allah's commands without questioning [1] 'We sent all these apostles as heralds of glad tidings and warners so that men might have no excuse before Allah' [4:165] [1] some were messengers [rasool: endowed with scriptures: Ibrahim, Isa, Daoud and Musa [AS]; the Prophet was given the Qur'an [1 for any example given] [1] others were prophets [nabi] e.g. Adam, Ismail, Ishaq, Yaqub and others [1] Prophet Muhammad [pbuh] is the last in this line, the seal of the prophets [khatim'un'nabiyeen], therefore there is a special place for him in the hearts of Muslims[1]

12 (a) Explain the role of Hadith in Islam.

- the Qur'an revealed to the Prophet [pbuh] has general principles as well as essential instructions; Hadith [the Traditions] of the Prophet [pbuh] is the second source of guidance for Muslims; therefore the importance of Hadith is linked to the importance of the Qur'an
- the Qur'an says 'Indeed in the Messenger of Allah you have a good example to follow...' [33:21] also 'Obey Allah and obey the Prophet' [64:12] 1 mark for either [1]
- the Prophet's task was to explain and illustrate Allah's message; '...and We have revealed unto thee the Remembrance that thou may explain to mankind that which hath been revealed for them, and that they may reflect...' [16:44]
- Prophet's life after the first revelation was keenly observed by his companions; his character and social interactions became their example to follow; have become a common cultural framework for all Muslims
- instructions for Muslims to offer ritual prayer [salat] zakat and Hajj revealed in the Qur'an, but details were demonstrated and taught by the Prophet [pbuh] himself and are found in Hadith literature
- Prophet [pbuh] was conscious of his mortality; he encouraged followers to acquire knowledge [of Qur'an and his sunnah]; he stressed emphatically that nothing should be falsely attributed to him
- Prophet [pbuh] said 'I leave with you two things. If you hold fast to them you will never be misguided: the Book of Allah and my sunnah.'
- companions listened carefully to every word he spoke, memorised them and wrote them down during his lifetime
- both the Qur'an and Hadith form the basis of Islamic Law [shari'ah] [1]
- the Prophet [pbuh] explained Islam to his followers by his actions and in what he said.
 Thus Hadith covers every aspect of life: personal matters, buying, selling, contracts, leases, inheritance to name a few
- Hadith provide Muslims with a rounded sense of a real human being and how he interacted with his followers; all his actions are virtuous in the eyes of the Muslims and have been so since the beginning of the history of Islam; by emulating him Muslims hope that their actions are acceptable to Allah
- after the Prophet's death efforts were made to compile reliable Hadith; these were handed down as the traditions of Islam which became a major branch of study [1]
- Hadith were meticulously collected, verified and evaluated by the well-established rules of validation as established by the great scholars of Islam
- in a Hadith about the Prophet, Aisha is guoted as saying 'His conduct was the Qur'an '[1]

(b) From the Hadith you have studied discuss the concept of tolerance in Islam and how a Muslim should act. [10]

A man said to the Prophet 'Counsel me.' He said 'Do not become angry.' The man repeated his request several times and he said 'Do not become angry.' 1 mark only Candidates can write about anger as a human trait; the Prophet knew its consequences; urged Muslims that no actions should be undertaken when angry; anger should be kept under control despite provocations.

Candidates might give examples of the way Muslims should act to control/avoid anger in any number of situations and why this is desirable and what alternative actions might be followed. Personal narratives should be given credit.
